"I thought I could help the town, create a partnership..."
(episode 20)

Oh how you all have succeeded in a way that Russell could only dream of!

Hope and desire are curious and powerful things. And, in your history-making, you all have proven oh so beautifully how such things can indeed trump the predictable hands of logic and "reality". As I said in an earlier post, you are all, truly, an inspiration!

And still... while I am very very very very grateful to each of you for having saved my favorite show, I am in awe just imagining the greater possibilities we as a people can accomplish.

To quote one of my favorite dead guys, Emerson:

"What lies behind us and what lies before us are small matters compared to what lies within us."

And while yes, each of you has made TV a better place... I like to think that with each of your passionate, persistent, creative, courageous, faithful, and forceful souls in the world, that it too is a better place.

For all your effort, and for all that you are, once again, I thank you!

Best,
David "Russell" Meunier
